KCA Attends Greenwood County Cattlemen's Meeting

Eureka Kan. - Kansas Cattlemen's Association was invited to the Greenwood County Cattlemen's Annual meeting. KCA had the opportunity to meet many of the cattlemen in the area and discuss the issues that KCA is working on. Topics of conversation were country of origin labeling, the lack of competition within the cattle industry and how KCA is encouraging policy makers to place safeguards on the amount of cattle and beef imports the U.S. receives. One issue that seemed to be a concern is the ban on horse slaughter in the United States. KCA staff reassured producers that KCA is working to prevent a bill from passing the U.S. Senate if such a bill gets to the floor.

It is evident that Greenwood County Cattlemen's and Cattlewomen's Associations are progressive and innovative. They implement creative ideas and are dedicated to promoting beef and their products in the community. In the past, they have given away beef at Eureka Downs, a hot spot for horse racing. Also, placemats highlighting approximately 100 of the local registered brands create a marketing outlet and indicate the pride producers have in the product they raise.

KCA would like to thank the Greenwood County Cattlemen and Cattlewomen for the warm welcome that KCA received and the opportunity to address producer issues.
